CONN BROTHERS

Mrs. Della Arnold is reported quite sick of the whooping cough.

The population of Bryantville is increasing since Mr. Lem Teater has moved there, a fine boy having been born at his house.

Hamm Brothers have purchased the General Merchandise stock of the Southern Mercantile Company at Hyattsville, and will continue to carry a full line of goods.

Options are yet being taken for the Government building and, those on the inside claim that we are sure to get it. That and the new school building will add materially to our already beautiful and growing city.

Trials.

Judge Ford held June Wren, who is charged with burning the Nuckles' barn, to answer before the grand jury, in a bond of $200, which he gave.

Sam Broadus, colored, charged with killing another colored man named Cobb, waived examining trial and was committed to jail.

Card of Thanks.

We want to thank our many friends for their kindness to us in the dark hours of trouble in the loss of our dear husband and father. May every one be rewarded in that happy land above.
Mrs. Elizabeth Jackson and family.
Bryantville, Ky.

Hager.

Mrs. W. F. Hager, who moved from Wayne county to a farm recently bought by her husband near Bryant-ville, died on Tuesday and the remains were buried in the Lancaster cemetery on Thursday. She was a devout member of the Methodist church and an excellent lady.

Bargains in Land.

We have three small tracts of unimproved land for sale at a bargain. One tract of 21 acres, another of 18 acres, another of 13 acres. All well located, lies well, and good land. Can give possession at once. Will sell one tract or all. Terms to suit purchaser. Apply to Hughes & Swinebroad, Lancaster, Ky. 1-21-25.

Art Instructions.

Miss Salie Elkin will open a studio
at the Graded School building January 31st, where she will give instruction in china decoration, oil, water color and pencil drawing. Miss Elkin has spent her entire life in this community and has had a private class here several years. By her efforts she has done much to awaken interest in the study of art in her native county. She avails herself of every opportunity to study, having recently had lessons from Mrs. Leonard of N. Y. We bespeak for her a most liberal patronage.

Read The Garrard Milling Co's. ad
at the top of the third page.

Little William, second son of Mr.
and Mrs. Chas. W. Anderson has been dangerously ill of whooping cough.

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. West, of Washington D. C., are the happy entertainers of a precocious little visitor.

Chief of Police, Herron made two arrests Monday, and one is to be tried.
The results will be given after the trial, by Judge Harris.

Week.

The train due here Saturday night at 8:26, did not arrive until 10 o'clock Sunday, on account of the engine leaving the rails near Lowell. The engineer and mail clerk were bruised slightly.

A large crowd saw Durno at the Court House Wednesday night and were thoroughly pleased with the entertainment. Next entertainment will be the Keith Litchfield Comedy Company, February 7th, seats on sale at McRoberts drug store.

The Woman's Club meeting at Mrs.
J. A. Amon's this week was unusual, in interest as well as subject. Italian opera was discussed, Viridis score of Il Trovatore being the one selected.
All the world knows and loves "Ah I have sighed to rest me." This one theme has sufficed to make his name famous.

Over $400,000.

The work of the County Supervisors shows the total property of the county to be $5,799,882, the increase and value on property being over $400,000 above
the property of the preceding year.
This is the result of the knowledge of our productive soil being made known throughout the country.

Court Day.

A large crowd was in town Monday and business was lively. Few cattle were on the market, but prices were good. A number of mules sold from $100 to $225.

G. A. Swinebroad bought a pair of two-year-olds at $325; I. F. Naylor sold a two year old for $160, and bought one from Robt Shearow for $135; Ashby Arnold sold a pair of mules for $275; Robt Shearow sold a six year mule to Boen Fox for $200; Alfred Owens sold a pair of six year old mare mules to W.
B. Burton for $400; H. K. Herndon bought a nice pair from Mr. Dean for $300.

Smith-Doty.

While their many friends were expecting the event, yet the marriage of Mr. E. B. Smith and Miss Hattie Doty came as a surprise Saturday evening.
So well did they guard their intentions that their closest friends did not know of the arrangements. Shortly after supper they drove to the Methodist parsonage where the ceremony was said by the Rev. Mr. Crutchfield.
The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr.
Jesse Doty, of Lancaster, and has resided in Richmond for several years.
By her sweet disposition and manners she became a great favorite with our people who wish her well in her new station. She is a young woman of great industry and many noble traits which insure for the fortunate groom an ideal helpmeet. Mr. Smith has resided in Richmond for some years, where as editor of the Pantagraph he has won many friends. He is a man of ability and energy, and is worthy of the noble woman who has entrusted her wellfare to him. The couple have rooms at Mrs. Miller's on West Main street. The climax joins in every good wish for a life of happiness.—
Richmond Climax.

The Record endorses the above and adds that she was a great favorite here with everybody.

RELIGIOUS.

Rev. O. P. Bush will conduct services at the Baptist church, Sunday.

There will be preaching at the Methodist church Sunday at 11 a. m. prompt, by pastor. Special announcement to membership. Full attendance requested.

Sunday night at Methodist church,
by official invitation, Dr. Pearce will conduct the first of a union series of services, to be held in rotation at the different churches of the town, in which there will be joint official attendance of the different lodge fraternity of the community. All the membership, when so choosing, attending in their regalia and with emblems of orders respectively. Front pews of auditorium will be reserved for ushers
for the different orders as church guests, on the occasion.

Rev. C. O. Brown preached an impressive and unusually appropriate sermon Sunday evening at the Presbyterian church on "Why people do not go to church?" He placed the percentage of attendance at about a sixth or an eighth of the entire membership in a community of this size, and gave as a reason that the laity did not fully realize the motive that should take them to the Sanctuary, a desire to worship the Lord God Almighty.

To Make Hens Lay.

Bourbon Egg Producer supplies elements found in various grains, seeds and grasses which causes the food to produce eggs instead of fat. A few doses in the feed will make your hens lay amazingly. Try it and see. Sold by J. R. Mount & Co.

Mr. Jno. K. West, one of Lancaster's most revered octogenarians, is quite ill at his home on Richmond street.

Malcom House and Henry Duncan purchased the fixtures of Fred Wilker-son's barber shop which was run here for about six months.

Good Prices.

Two shares of stock in the Citizens
National Bank, belonging to the Barkley estate, Jessamine county, sold to T. B. Walker at $158.00 per share, which shows the thriving condition of this splendid institution.

The Citizens National Life Insurance Company has begun business at Birmingham Alabama and all the Southern States will be under management of Mr. Geo. D. Durdett, formerly of this place, who is fifth vice president, and has located there. It began business under most auspicious circumstances.

County Court.

In Judge Ford's court Monday, the wills of Mrs. Patti Kinnaird and Mr.
Tira Harris were probated. The former bequeathed all of her property to her two daughters, Misses Kate and Lillian. Capt. W. I. Kinnaird qualified as administrator with the will an-nexed.

Mr. Harris gave all of his property to his sister, Mrs. R. K. Denton.

Incorporated.

The purchasers of the distillery property have incorporated under the name of the Pilgrimage Tobacco Company, with Banks Hudson, President;
R. I. Burton, Vice President; W. R.
Cook, Treasurer and J. M. Farra, Secretary and General Manager.

The above corporation will transact a larger volume of business than any concern in this part of the country.

Entertains C. W. B. M. Auxiliary.

Mrs. Kauffman entertained in her hospitable home, the members of the C. W. B. M. Auxiliary in honor of Mrs.
Walter Beazley, of Los Angeles, Cal.
Mrs. Beazley was the first president of the Auxiliary and this fact and her long residence in the West made the meeting full of interesting incidents and delightful reminiscences.

After an hour most pleasantly spent refreshments were served. Mrs. Kaufman's home is always a charming center for friends, and this occasion was not an exception.

Kinnaird.

On Wednesday night, nineteenth,
Mrs. Pat. J. W. Kinnaird, age 83 years died at her home on Danville avenue.
Although she had been in ill health for sometime, her death was a shock to her devoted children and the entire community, in which she was known and held in the highest esteem, on account of those excellent traits of character which adorn pure and noble womanhood. On Friday Rev. C. C.
Brown, pastor of the Presbyterian church, of which she was an active and devoted member, conducted funeral services at the residence, and, in the presence of many friends and a large and distinguished relationship,
the body was buried in Lancaster cemetery.

She was the widow of the late W. H.
Kinnaird, a bank cashier and well known throughout the country. She was a niece of Gov. Letcher and related to Hon. Samuel McKee. Five daughters and three sons survive her, Misses Kate and Lillian, Mrs. Maria Kirby and Dr. J. B. Kinnaird, of this city, Mrs. Mary McDonald, of Danville, Mrs. Wm. Burnside, of Barbour-ville, and Capt. W. J. and McKee Kinnaird, of Middlesboro, all of whom have contributed their part to the good citizenship of the communities in which they live.

Deceased was active in every cause that tends to beautify and elevate human life, and her kind words and comforting deeds will live in eternity, in harmony with the principles which prevail in the abode of Angels.

School Notes.

In spite of the bad weather the school attendance has been quite good for the month of January. We have enrolled twenty seven new pupils since Christmas. Some of the rooms now have about sixty pupils, making it necessary to purchase a few new desks.

We are pleased to report that class work has been good, and that few need to be apprehensive of failure in the examinations which come Thursday and Friday week.

Miss Mae McGee who is filling the place, from which Mrs. Burnside resigned, has a large music class.

Several former students visited us
Monday morning. Miss Mary Elmore of the class of 1908 has entered the Normal School at Richmond.

The School Board has arranged to meet an architect this week who will present plans and estimates, either for remodeling the old school building, or erecting a new one. It is hoped that his proposal will meet with such favor that we can begin to make plans for the needed improvements, so as to have everything in readiness by September 1911. Many other towns are making improvements, and unless we do something soon we shall find ourselves outstripped by our neighbors. If we expect to make arrangements with the County School Board to take the County School pupils
we must make provision for their accommodation.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

We are authorized to announce Hon. Harvey Helm a candidate to succeed himself in Congress, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We heartily concur with the Shelby Record in the following statement, having always favored primary elections:

There has been but little said recently of the Congressional race that will be held in this district this year. The friends of several gentlemen have said that there would be opposition to Hon. Harvey Helm, the present incumbent, for the Democratic nomination, but as yet no authoritative announcement to that effect has been made.

Mr. Helm has made his official announcement, but none of the others have done so. A nomination will be made, as a matter of course, and the selection of a party candidate will probably be made some time in the spring or summer. The time and manner of making the selection will be determined by the Congressional committee which will be called together at the pleasure of Mr. Norton Fitch, of Jessamine county, who is the Chairman of that committee. The Democrats of this district are interested in the selection of a good man for the position, and there must be no taint or suspicion of unfairness in making that selection. The district, from a political standpoint, is very close, and the defeat of a weak or unpopular Democratic candidate by a strong and popular Republican would not only be probable, but very possible.

There must be no question as to the fairness of the selection. Packed conventions in the past have had much to do with the selection of candidates, and it is to be hoped that the future will be different. The friends of the party should be united in their support of a strong and popular candidate, and should be careful to avoid any unfairness in the selection.

Kentucky.
This should become a law, as it would keep funds in our State where they properly belong.

Son—Father, what is a majority?

Father—In which House, son?

Son—In the Senate.

Father—It takes two thirds to make a majority in the Senate, son.

Son—Is that Democratic?

Father—No, indeed.

Son—Well, who fixed it that way, Father?

Father—The Democrats.

Son—Will the Democratic party be blamed for it?

Father—Yes, son—Ky State Journal.

We might add:

Son—What will become of Taft after the Pinchot affair?

Father—He can never win again.

Son—What about the Democratic State Senators who are against the County unit bill?

Father—They will never be elected again and should not be.

Replying from the floor of the Senate to a recently published newspaper article on night riding in Kentucky, Senator Bradley uttered vigorous protest against what he declared was the injustice and the falsity of the story. He took exception to the assertion in the article that conditions in Kentucky to-day are as lamentable as they were in 1907 and during a portion of 1908. A large crowd heard the speech, and it goes without saying that it was an excellent one, as he is able and willing to defend his native State against foul and unjust calumny.

Officials of the Hurley Tobacco Society, who returned from Washington announced their belief that the Government will not prosecute the society under the Sherman anti-trust law. This is a righteous decision. Instead of being an organization to restrain of trade, they have banded together to prevent being robbed, and to insure a division of the profits made by the manufacturer, which has amounted to hundreds of millions of dollars.

Referring the county unit bill to the committee on Religion and Morals, it is regarded, by its friends, as a pre-arranged affair to defeat the bill in the State Senate; and it appears to be true, as they claim that only two of the nine members are for it. Seven of them are Democrats and the people will hold them responsible if the bill is defeated. The majority of the people should not be strangled by sharp practice, and dark and unfair methods.

Working on the farm and opposition to early marriage are enforced by the following paragraph in the will of a lady across the river:

"If any of my children marry or quit working on the farm or on my said real estate before five years shall have expired after my death he or she shall forfeit all interest in my estate when final disposition is made, except the amount of $1."

The sad news of the death of Arthur Goebel has been received. He will be remembered on account of his faithful work in attempting to bring the assassins of his brother, Gov. Wm. Goebel, to justice. We had rather be one of them, in his grave, than an assassin, with a crown on his head.

It is said that W. J. Bryan will be a candidate again, for President. In view of his defeats, this looks like foolishness, and yet the fact that the trusts and manufacturers are against him is a good reason why he, or some one of his faith, should make the race. What about Champ Clark?

Former Senator McCreary has announced that the unveiling of the Goebel monument will take place on February 3. Let us go and do honor to the memory of this great and fearless advocate of the interests of the common people, a trait rarely found in official life, in this corrupt age.

It affords us a proud satisfaction to learn that many favor the school building which we, and others, have advocated through these columns. We hope to see that and other improvements, which have been suggested, materialize in the near future.

Two good bills have been introduced in the Legislature; one to establish the whipping post for wife beaters and those guilty of petty larceny, and the other making it a misdemeanor to treat another to liquor in a bar room.

Secretary of the Interior Ballinger made a speech before the Good Government Club, at Westminster, Mass., in which he bitterly attacked "muck-rakers" and "penny-a-liners" and defended his own course.

As Dr. Cook, the explorer, is a man we don't know what to say, but if he were a horse we would think he had the poll-evil.—Farmer's Home Journal

Saved At Death's Door.

The door of death seemed ready to open for Murray W. Ayers, of Transit Bldg. N. Y., when his life was wonderfully saved. "I was in a dreadful condition," he writes, "my skin was almost yellow; eyes sunken; tongue coated; emaciated from losing 40 pounds, growing weaker daily. Virulent liver trouble pulling me down to death in spite of doctors. Then that blessed medicine—Electric Bitters—came. I regained the 40 pounds and now am well and strong." All stomach, liver and kidney troubles they're supreme. 50c at R. E. McRoberts. 1m

More Probabilities.
A prodigious business scheme is under headway, but as the plans have not yet reached materialization the enterprise will not be revealed to the public until it is a bona fide deal.

The intention of opening several new streets running intersecting roads and sidewalks from the Richmond to the Crab Orchard roads and also from the latter to the Stanford turnpike and making an annex to the town in the way of desirable building sites in the vicinity of the new tobacco re-drying plant, is a design that shows much public spiritedness on the part of the promoters, and will very much enhance the value of the property in the southern suburbs of the community. A new street might also be run from the Danville road, across the pasture below the Kinnaird property, opening into the Duncan town annex, giving a better access to the water works locality, and also advancing the interests of the colored folks, by giving them a bet er drive-way from their residence section. With the prospect of a magnificent $100,000 government building, and the electric storage plant harnessing Dix river and furnishing unlimited light and power for all needed purposes, Lancaster promises, at a very early date to become a very thriving and progressive city, with all the rival communities ready to admit that this is truly the "Land of Now."

With such promoters as the Lancaster and Garard Development Association, and M. D. Hughes, for many years the chief advocate of Lancaster progress and enterprise, there is no probability of this community ever returning to its former lethargy and state of indifference.

It was the development of a "vision" the materialization of a "dream," of Wm. B. Rankin, of Buffalo, who unfolded his plan to Francis Lynde Stetson, (Cleveland law partner) outlining a way of capturing and utilizing for commercial purposes some of the energy that was going to waste over Niagara Falls. Stetson sent Edward D. Adams, a financier and scientist, all over Europe searching for the one way to harness the Falls. Rothschild suggested to Mr. Adams the name of Sir Wm. Thompson, (later Lord Kelvin) as that of a competent and really great engineer. By the aid of this eminent scientist, the giant feat was designed and brought to realization. But back of all, and may be greatest of all, was the "dream" or "vision," of W. B. Rankin.

So Lancaster also has her designers and dreamers, ever so needful, for without the "vision" in the mind's eye, the more practical part of humanity would accomplish but little, and great feats and giant enterprises would remain embryonic and unborn.

Ida May Grant, member of Publicity Committee of the Lancaster and Garard Development Association.

A SERMON IN RHYME.

"AS THE DAY, SO SHALL THY STRENGTH BE."

Do not sit pondering on what the days may bring thee.

For hearken what the Lord in Israel says, "Thy strength shall be!"

It may be thou wilt have of Marah's cup.

The bitter drink; Strong when God calls on thee to sup.

Thou wilt not shrink. Of when shall strike the hour.

Take thou no heed. Each day God gives thee the courage, wit and power

That day may need.

For always, "As the day thy strength shall be."

Then, courage, take thee! This is the promise of thy Lord, and he will ne'er forsake thee.

Bridget's Beatitudes.

Blessed is the vegetable brush for cleaning potatoes; they should always, except for fancy cooking, be boiled in their jackets. The best in the potato is next the skin. This, too, may be eaten if thoroughly cleaned, and is excellent in cases of chronic constipation.

Blessed are cereals and nuts among foodstuffs. They are the most condensed of foods, containing the most nourishment for least bulk.

Blessed are the houses where there are, in summer, no portieres, few rugs and no draperies. All these exclude air and light, gather germs and dust, and are altogether, in hot weather, nuisances.

Blessed is the cornmeal mush made with a little butter. Try it and see how economical this is, because it insures that all the mush will be eaten.

Blessed is the laundry soap used to stop up a mouse hole with; it will prevent mice from gnawing through again in the same place.

Blessed is the cocoa which is beaten with an egg beater.

Another Vegetarian Dish.

This is afforded by the combination of tomatoes and cheese. It will be found a substantial meal. Boil slowly some ripe tomatoes until the juice is evaporated. Remove from the fire and add butter, salt and pepper and cream or Parmesan cheese. Stir well, and serve immediately. The amount of cheese must be governed by taste, but it is best to have it in proportion of a third of cheese to the tomatoes.

RECLUSE A PROBLEM

ABNORMAL LOVE OF SOLITUDE HARD TO UNDERSTAND.

All Classes of Society Included Among Those Peculiar Individuals Who Have Shut Themselves from Their Fellow Men.

The recluse is a human problem which has defied doctors and scientists alike. They can give no satisfactory reason why an otherwise sane person should shut himself up and refuse to mingle with his fellow men.

Only a few days ago an extraordinary story of self-banishment was revealed at an inquest held at Chatham. The central figure might have stepped out of the pages of Dickens, for he was known by the curiously romantic nickname of "Walter All-Alone."

Twenty years ago Walter Tibball—to give him his real name—was a prosperous butcher. Then one morning he disappeared from his usual haunts, the business was sold and the streets of Chatham knew Walter Tibball no more.

For the rest of his life he lived in a miserable shanty on the outskirts of the town—alone and silent. The little food he ate was delivered by a man who seldom saw Walter All-Alone and never conversed with him.

The cottage fell into a very bad state and Tibball's health broke down; but he strenuously refused medical aid and resolutely declined to enter the infirmary.

At the inquest it was stated that Walter All-Alone had condemned himself to this wretched existence by way of expiating some purely imaginary fault.

Henry Cavendish, the famous natural philosopher and chemist, was a recluse who astonished England.

A son of Lord Charles Cavendish and a nephew of the third duke of Devonshire, possessed of enormous wealth, the subject of universal admiration because of his scientific attainments, he preferred the solitude of his study and the company of his books to the pleasures society could offer him.

For many years he lived at Hampstead, in a large, roomy house, attended by a number of female servants, who, however, were strictly enjoined to keep out of his sight. If a domestic by the mereest chance came into the presence of Cavendish, she was instantly dismissed.

Every morning the philosopher would leave a note on the hall table naming what he wanted for dinner. No one saw him place the note there, but, accustomed to the strange customs of the establishment, the meal would be prepared, and only the remains of the repast signified the presence of the master of the house.

When Cavendish died, in 1810, he left behind him nearly $5,000,000, beside a lasting reputation as a scientist and writer on natural philosophy.

The case of Capt. Wilson contains every element of tragedy and pathos. Educated at a great public school, he entered a crack cavalry regiment when only 20 years of age. Then followed a decade of popularity in London society.

But everything changed with the death of his supposed father. It was then revealed that Capt. Wilson was not the son of the man to whom he owed his splendid position; he was only a foundling. Though his foster-parent had left him his entire fortune, he resigned at once from the army and from his clubs, said farewell to all his friends and retired to an obscure village in the south of England. By his will he bequeathed of $750,000.—London Telegraph.

Why He Ended Friend's Nap.

Speaking of the friend who sat in the jury box of the United States court with his hat on the other day, Attorney Francis B. Lee of Trenton told of a little incident that happened in connection with a good Quaker acquaintance of his who lives in Moorestown. One-day the Quaker was questioned to sleep in meeting and started to snore. For awhile the nasal notes were soft and smooth and did not disturb the worshippers, but finally the sleeper let out a few extra links and kicked up such a commotion that a kindly disposed friend thought it the part of wisdom to awaken him.

"Friend Nathaniel," he whispered, poking the sleeper in the ribs, "I think thee had better arouse thyself." "What did thee say? What did thee say?" exclaimed Nathaniel, suddenly starting out of his slumber. "What is the matter?"

"Nothing, Nathaniel," replied the other, without even breaking into a smile, "only thee was snoring a little, and I was afraid that outsiders would think that the spirit had moved thee to a trombone solo instead of an expression of thy convictions."

Not What He Expected.

"Had a great surprise to-day." "How was that?" "My son pointed out the famous football coach to me." "What surprised you in him?" "Why, it was a man. I always thought it was an ambulance."

Truly Novel.

"I have tried to write something out of the ordinary in this novel." "Well, my boy, I think you have succeeded."

"In what particular?"

"Your heroine acts at times as if she had sense."—Kansas City Journal.

The Meanest Man in Town

is the one who always wears a frown, is cross and disagreeable, and is short and sharp in his answers. Nine cases out of ten it's not the poor fellow's fault, it's his liver and digestion that makes him feel so miserable, he can't help being disagreeable. Are you in danger of getting into that condition? Then start at once taking Ballard's Herbine for your liver—the safe, sure and reliable vegetable regulator. Sold by R. E. McRoberts.

Another specimen of splendid parental control is that of a citizen formerly of this county, but now of the West, who has reared 6 boys to manhood, none of whom use tobacco nor drink liquor in any form, possessing fine physiques, measuring 6 feet, as well as high moral characters. Each one occupying lucrative positions and some of the boys are active church workers.

A Wild Blizzard Raging brings danger, suffering—often death to thousands, who take colds, coughs and lagrippe—that terror of Winter and Spring. Its danger signals are "stuffed up," nostrils, lower part of nose sore, chills and fever, pain in back of head, and a throat-grinding cough. When Grip attacks, as you value your life, don't delay getting Dr. King's New Discovery. "One bottle cured me," writes A. L. Dunn, of Pine Valley, Miss., "after being 'laid up' three weeks with Grip." For sore, lungs, hemorrhages, Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, etc., Dr. King's New Discovery is the only remedy.

HALL GAINES' PORTRAIT.

Clyde Fitch, the noted playwright, was praising the reporter of the past. "He has merged now," said Mr. Fitch, "into the playwright, the novelist, or the leader writer. We don't have reporters like him now. Their power is too soon recognized. They rise too fast. And hence the news columns suffer."

Mr. Fitch took down one of his scribbles. "Here is a sample of the way reporters used to write. It's very good and amusing," he said. "It's a description of Hall Gaines. Listen. And he read: "When he removed his slouch hat he showed long hair brushed back a la Pompadour. It has the shade of maple sugar, and it is getting thin on the top. He had an enormous collar, with a turndown flap three inches deep. He could wear a collar at least five sizes smaller without choking. His white necktie was tied so carelessly that the knot part of it hung two or three inches south of the collar button."

AN EYE TO FUTURE BUSINESS.

Minister—Who was that fellow talking to you so earnestly in front of the church to-day?
Sexton—That's Mr. Hustler, the famous divorce lawyer.
Minister—What did he want?
Sexton—He offered me $10 to pass around his business cards to all the bridegrooms who are to be married here this month.

The Usual Program.
A zipp, a whizz, a cloud of dust
And past you the jay-riders hurtle;
And then you call an ambulance,
An auto has turned turtle.

Same Shade.
"Seems to be a college over there on the hill."
"So it is."
"I wonder what the college colors are?"
"There is only one color—black."
"I don't understand."
"All the students at that college used to be pickaninnies."

Quite Simple.
"How are Grayce and Maude getting along now?"
"Admirably. They haven't quarreled for a week."
"How does that happen?"
"Well, you see, Grayce is out of town."

THE REASON WHY.
"John, why did you buy this book for Willie? I've read it through and it is pure nonsense. It isn't worth wasting one's time over."
"I bought it for Willie, my dear—not for you. That's the reason I was so careful about its being pure nonsense."

Inexcusable.
Some must work and some must play.
But this I note:
There is no reason that I know
Why some must rock the boat.

Below is a list of letters remaining in the Lancaster Post office, unclaimed, the week ending January 24th 1910: Neerice Adams, Nellie Bryant, J. B. Hitcher, J. H. Hilton, Bash Hatch, Starling Payne, T. W. Rothwell, Mrs. Ray Pilling, Leonard Peters. If called for say Advertisers. Wm. West. P. M.

Farm and Stock.

Registered Jersey Bull
Season 1910 at my farm.
114-41

Ben Herriott, a wizard with a saddle colt, says the lad that tames Highland Fandango (Everett Farras' colt) this season will think he's been to a horse show. He's entered in that big sale at Lexington, Ky., February 14 to 19th.

There is no danger of overstocking the dairy cow market so long as the systematic robbing of the herds by the disposal of the calves continues. When cows sell for from $50 to $70 at public sales, it seems like folly to hurry off the calves for a few dollars a head.

The cow that is making from two to three pounds of butter each day should not be turned out in a yard in the cold to exercise, else her buter yield will drop. If put in a roomy stall and tied so she can move around and lie down comfortably, she will get all the exercise necessary. Heavy milking dairy cows never voluntarily take exercise.

R. E. Goddard, of Harrodsburg, owner of Red Leaf, was in town Monday. He said that he was going to sell Red Leaf in the Kentucky Sales Co's. sale at Lexington, February 14 to 19. This stallion is highly thought of in this county and all know he is a good one, being the sire of Ben Hur, who won first prize at Madison Square Garden.

NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William Pitt

Alfalfa makes dairying profitable.

It is useless to plant clover on wet soil.

The life of the honey bee is very short.

Few plants will grow without air in the soil.

Clover and legumes do not succeed on lands that are sour.

The fall of the year is the best time for setting peony plants.

Gasoline has recently gained considerable reputation as a vermifuge.

The peony is one of the best and most popular of all our early flowering plants.

It is not a good plan to plant the same field to the same crop two years in succession.

The wise farmer wants assurance on the soil of any land that he may contemplate buying.

When the timothy crowds the clover entirely out the following crops of timothy are usually very large.

Farms where the soil is thin, and practically must be bought over by the cost of fertilizing, are not a good investment.

Acidity may be overcome by applying from 500 to 1,000 pounds of lime per acre, or by the use of floats or ground shells.

Reports have been received that about 5,000 homestead entries were filed in Montana during the first six months of 1909.

No other people set so high a value on good soil as the Hollanders, and we are learning that not many acres, but rich ones, make the profitable farm.

Clover fields that are thin may be seeded to timothy for a crop next summer by sowing the clover field now to timothy and harrowing in the seed.

The roots of the cowpea penetrate rather deeply into the subsoil and enables the plant to feed upon the mineral food that is not readily extracted by other crops.

A common variety of intestinal worm which is a source of much annoyance to horses and which calls for special attention just now is popularly known as the pinworm.

An effective remedy for potato blight has been found in Bordeaux mixture, which consists of four pounds of copper sulphate and five or six pounds of fresh lime in 60 gallons of water.

All milk must be cooled to a temperature not above 55 degrees within two hours after being drawn, and kept thereafter below that, and must be cooled to 50 degrees or less if not delivered at the creamery twice a day.

Live stock farming does not always mean diversified farming, and some forms of live stock farming may become as objectionable in many ways as a form of farming in which a single crop is grown for sale.

One of the most serious objections to a single crop system of farming is the effect it has on the fertility of the land. Our best agricultural lands will stand exploitive farming—that is, farming without any attention to fertility—for about two generations.

Agricultural teachers have urged diversified farming for many years, but with little effect, until the appearance of the boll weevil. This insect made cotton farming very precarious and has led to radical modifications in the systems of farming prevailing in that section.

The soy beans make the best hay if cut when the pods have formed and the lowest leaves have turned yellow; but for seed the cutting should not be until half the leaves have turned yellow. Even the soy bean straw is a valuable feed. Animals relish the hay and thrive upon it.

The milch goat, like all goats, can make a living on brushy and hilly land, where most other animals would starve. They are very beneficial to land in cleaning it of weeds, sprouts and brush. They cannot endure low wet land, but thrive perfectly on rough, hilly land. These giving milk should be fed on good grass, hay, fodder and wheat bran, but no grain of any kind.

Mr. Treadway has moved to W. S. Fish home place. Mr. Fish and family having moved to Stanford.

Mrs. J. B. Ely and children, of Hyattsville, are visiting Mrs. Martha Ely.

Misses Maddell King and Lucy Noe have entered Normal School at Richmond for the next term.

Mr. A. B. Estridge was in Lancaster Monday.

Mrs. George Parsons is visiting relatives in Lexington.

Farmers with silos are inclined to feel and show greater independence than their neighbors without them. They say they don't care so much what the season is, they are sure of lots of good feed.

A new sheep disease has been found among flocks in central New York state, known as "gid," and is said to be the first case in this country. Gid is a brain disease, being a form of staggers and is often fatal.

The family cat needs watching. Cats prefer young chickens to mice or rats. Many valuable chicks have disappeared in this way and the cat looks innocent. After you have muzzled your own cat, then look out for the neighbor's cat.

After the wheat field has been planted open up drains with the plow for leading off surface water. A few hours' work spent at this will mean the saving of much wheat from drowning out. There will be much rain between seeding time and harvest.

Nitrogen is contained in great quantities in the air above us, but it cannot be purchased and used with profit in farming, except under special conditions. Clover and other leguminous plants can draw all they require from the atmosphere by means of bacteria that live on their roots.

It is not possible to maintain our lands without clover and it is best to sow clover and plow it under. It is desirable to clip the clover two or three weeks earlier than it would be cut for hay and let it lie upon the ground, and this helps the second crop, which may be cut for seed; then the straw should be put back on the land.

It is interesting to note just how the cowpea crop benefits the soil upon which it grows and increases its productive capacity. In the first place it does so by increasing the supply of nitrogen, which it transfers from the air to the soil by means of the bacteria which live on the roots of the plant. This added supply of nitrogen serves also to increase the growth of the plant as well as enriching the soil during its growth.

The fight against insect, scale and fungus diseases in our orchards must not be dropped with the harvesting of the fruit crops. It cannot be hoped that you have, by your spraying operations during the summer season, killed all the scale insects and fungi, and doubtless during the press of work on the farm during the fall season the matter will have been neglected, or very little done, since the fruit was formed, and it can be depended on that there will now be on your orchard trees a fine collection of all sorts ready to hibernates and come forth in the spring stronger than ever.

ORIENTAL SERVANT A JEWEL

All Around Ability of the Indispensable "Boy" in India is Something to Wonder At.

In these days of loud wailing about the haughty domestic, exorbitant wages and small returns it is soothing to recall the efficiency and submissive service of the oriental servant.

In India the indispensable "boy" does everything—"boy" being a generic name regardless of age or native dignity—receiving in remuneration the equivalent of $12 to $14 a month at the most. He buys your railroad tickets, checks your luggage, settles the clamors of luggage coolies, gives your tips and shoos away the hordes of beggars, telegraphs to hotels for your rooms and takes care of them when you get there, makes the bed, brings the afternoon tea, stands beside your chair at table and serves you, brings your account when you leave and wrangles for you over its inevitable extortions.

At the dak bungalows he forages for your meals and, if necessary, cooks them. He produces washmen, sewing men and all sorts of dealers in everything in demand. He makes up your bed on sleeping cars and replenishes your supply of ice and soda. He runs your errands, cleans your boots and hats, dries your stockings and mends your clothes.

When you walk abroad, he attends you and directs you to the bazars where you will be robbed least, receiving his commission later from an appreciative proprietor.

For every cent entrusted to him for general expenditure he renders an account, and though he doubtless robs you gently he does not let other rob you (and it is distinctly advantageous to be robbed by one person rather than a score).

He is silent and not useless, salaams whenever you speak to him, and never enters your presence with his shoes on or his turban off.

And, finally, his multifarious day ended, he wraps himself in his shawl and slips across your threshold.

Here's a Tongue-Twister.

Grenville Kleiser, instructor of the Public Speaking Club of America, whose headquarters is at the West side Y. M. C. A. in New York, defies anybody to repeat accurately from memory the following tongue-twister:

Esau Wood sawed wood. Esau Wood would saw wood. All the wood Esau Wood saw was Esau Wood would saw. In other words, all the wood Esau Wood saw was Esau Wood would saw. Oh, the wood Wood would saw! And, Oh, the wood saw with which Wood would saw wood! But one day Wood's wood saw would saw no wood and thus the wood Wood sawed was not the wood Wood would saw if Wood's saw would saw wood. Now, Wood would saw wood with a wood saw that would saw wood, so Esau sought a saw that would saw wood. One day Esau saw a saw saw wood as no other wood-saw Wood saw. In fact, of all the wood-saws Wood ever saw saw wood, Wood never saw a wood-saw that would saw wood as the wood-saw Wood saw saw wood, and I never saw a wood-saw that would saw as the wood-saw Wood saw saw wood until I saw Esau Wood saw wood with the wood-saw Wood saw saw wood. Now Wood saws wood with the wood-saw Wood saw saw wood.

Mr. Kleiser was formerly a member of the Yale faculty.

Jay Gould and the Physician.

A case of resemblance that bothered New Yorkers for years was that of Jay Gould, the millionaire railroad magnate, and his innocent double, a New York physician. The physician was taking a stroll one morning at an American winter resort, when he was confronted in the path by a dwarfish, swarthy, wise-faced man wearing a brown check suit.

"Mr. Gould, I believe?" the physician murmured.

Gould stared at his "counterfeit presentment." "I am not quite sure that I am," he exclaimed. "I wish you wouldn't wear clothes like mine."

"Shave off your beard, and I won't!" snapped the physician.

These men were for years constantly mistaken for each other, and if the physician had not been honest Gould might well have feared for his millions, for the physician might have presented himself almost anywhere as Gould and raised "on his face" almost any sum of money.—Sunday Magazine of the Pittsburgh Dispatch.

The Number Thirteen.

Does the number 13 influence a career in the army? Is a question asked by a Paris contemporary, impelled by the fact that M. Oudin appears thirteenth in the navy list at St. Cyr. He has just been gazetted as a sub-lieutenant in cavalry regiment, de-clared the London Globe. Thirteen is not looked upon as an unlucky number at St. Cyr, for among those who have stood thirteenth in the list are Marshal MacMahon in 1825, Gen. Bourbaki held the same place nine years later. Gen. Lyautey, one of the heroes at Metz in 1870, was an other 13. Among the living generals is Gen. Bailloud, who left in 1868, and has since had a brilliant career.

No Match for Her.

"Ah!" he lightly cried, "I cannot give you the key to my mind." She smiled till the tips of her pearly teeth fretted her ripe, red lip. "Why should there be any key to your mind?" she gently asked. "Do men put locks on empty storerooms?" Seeing that he was no match for her in trenchant badinage he strolled languidly away.

Kind Man from the Country.

An amusing incident occurred in a hotel a few nights ago. It appears that a farmer from South Jersey, who was unusually ignorant of city ways, went to the hotel with his son. The father retired early, but the son went out to "see the town."

At 12:30 o'clock the farmer went downstairs and inquired of the night clerk if the boy had returned yet. He was told that he had not. The father went back to his room. An hour later he again appeared before the clerk and said:

"Hain't Jack in yet?"

Again he was informed that the lad was out. The old man made several subsequent trips, and still his boy was among the missing. Finally, at 3:30 o'clock, the farmer trudged wearily down the stairs and asked again if his boy had returned.

"No, he's not in yet," replied the night clerk.

"Waal, I guess he won't come in, then. Guess you needn't wait up any longer."—Philadelphia Times.

Doing Fairly Well.

"How is your courtship coming along?"

"Oh, fairly well."

"Are you getting any nearer her to that?"

"A little since fall began. We've moved in from the front veranda to the parlor and he's moved in from the back porch to the kitchen."

Strange.

"Something wrong with this newspaper story."

"How now?"

"It doesn't refer to a party of girl travelers as a 'bevy of beauties.'"

Appraising It.

"I went into a bank this morning to change my mind," said young Light-wit, with a large smile.

"Indeed!" rejoined Miss Caustique. "You got five pennies, I suppose?"

Not Always the Racket.

"It ain't the noise that counts in this world," said the jauntier philosopher, "a noisy-noise dollar motor-cycle can make more noise than a $5,000 automobile, head!"

Accidental.

"What caused his death?"

"He was slightly unbalanced."

"Did he die in a madhouse?"

"No; he fell off a trapeze."

The Question.

Why hide your light under a bushel when a plat measure will measure you?
